Bake the biscuit, following the instructions on the package of the FunCakes mix for biscuit and let it cool off on a cooling grid. Slice through the biscuit twice and stuff it with a stuffing to your liking. Put the layers back together and coat the whole cake with buttercream or a cream made of 100 gram dairy butter with 100 gram icing sugar.

Knead the blank marzipan well and unroll it on some icing sugar. Cover the cake with the marzipan and press and smooth it carefully. Cut away the redundant marzipan with a knife. Now knead the colored marzipan well and press the pieces in the forms of the Wilton mold. This one is non-stick, meaning you don't have to use powdered sugar to use them. You get the best result if you fill the forms to the edge. Attach the marzipan figures to the cake with a bit of edible glue.

Tip: make the cake even more festive by decorating it with sugar pearls and/or edible glitter. The cake (depending on the stuffing) is preservable for 4 days if placed in the fridge and 3 months in the freezer.
